Peace in Pacific Plan, F.D.R., Konoye to Meet?

Associated Press

Japanese Premier Prince Konoyoe's message to President Roosevelt was prompted by "the very delicate relations existing between Japan and the United States, following the outbreak of the Russian-German war," the Japanese news agency Domei said in Tokyo tonight.

It reaffirmed Japan's desire to establish a "co-prosperity sphere" and permanent Pacific peace.

In Washington discussion of United States-Japanese relations
by President Roosevelt and Ambassador Nomura impressed diplomatic quarters as a possible first step toward a sweeping review of all important points at issue between the two nations.

The Japanese cabinet and some of the highest military officials of the country held an emergency meeting to discuss U.S.-Japanese relations.

The White House, the U.S.
State Department and the Japanese embassy in Washington would give no hint of what Prince Konoye said or suggested in his personal message to Mr. Roosevelt.

The unusual gesture had Washington diplomatic circles and foreign observers envisaging possibility of some spectacular suggestion for a conference designed to clarify the Far East situation.

Within the realm of possibilities, one informed Washington diplomat said, was that Prince Konoye, taking a leaf from Mr.
Roosevelt's own book, may have suggested a personal meeting
"somewhere in the Pacific," patterned after the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting "somewhere in the Atlantic."

Another possibility was that Prince Konoye may have suggested a conference of the Pacific nations—the United States,
Japan, Britain, Canada, the Netherlands and China—to which
might also be invited Australia,
New Zealand, Thailand, the Philippine Islands and possibly French Indo-China.

A conference of Pacific nations,
it was said, might be able to achieve a satisfactory settlement of problems through an all-inclusive pact, or series of pacts, modeled after the nine-power treaty which, for some years at least, served to maintain peace in the Pacific.

In Tokyo the important commercial newspaper Chugai indicated a belief the American-Japanese peace could be settled amicably.

"From time immemorial," said Chugai, "there has been no problem which could not be settled by mutual conversations between Japan and the United States."

Earlier, an official announcement in Tokyo said the Konoye message outlined "the imperial government's attitude toward the Pacific situation."

Ichi Kishi, a Japanese board of information official, declared in a nationwide broadcast that Konoye's message was of prime significance because the United States was eager not to break peaceful relations with Japan.

But he told the nation it
"should not forget for one moment its firm determination to cope with any untoward happening."

After reviewing moves Britain and the United States have made blocking Japanese aims in east Asia, Kishi concluded:

"Should the United States and Britain really hope for peace in east Asia they should certainly re-examine the policies they have adopted toward Japan in the past in the light of ideals often mouthed by them. Unless they translate their ideals into action
we cannot accept them at face value."

Japanese government spokesmen said the message was intended as "an examination of the cause of trouble in the delicate situation between Japan and the United States" and that shipments of oil and war supplies to Russia via the Far East undoubtedly would be included in any conversations with United States.

Another possibility was that Prince Konoye may have suggested a conference of the Pacific nations—the United States,
Japan, Britain, Canada, the Netherlands and China—to which
might also be invited Australia,
New Zealand, Thailand, the Philippine Islands and possibly
French Indo-China.

Nazis Claim Tallinn Captured

Canadian and Associated Press

Hitler's invasion armies have captured the long-besieged city of Tallinn, capital of Estonia, the German high command claimed today.

A violent naval battle was said to be raging in the Gulf of Finland with the Germans attempting to smash an evacuation armada of Soviet warships and troop transports.

The thunder of gunfire in the gulf was heard in Helsinki, and Finnish fliers reported seeing many dozens of Russian ships steaming out of Tallinn and heading eastward last night.

There was no Russian statement on the situation.

Presumably if they were evacuating Tallinn they would make no announcement until the operation was concluded.

FIRES IN VIIPURI
Finnish aerial observers also reported great fires reddened the skies last night over Viipuri, indicating the Russians were destroying that Karelian capital 75 miles north of Leningrad.

A Nazi war bulletin claimed several thousand prisoners were taken at the Tallinn naval base,

along with 22 loaded transports, six coastal batteries and vast stores of booty.

A Soviet destroyer and nine other warships were sunk in the other naval vessels were dam-

ture of Dnieperpetrovsk, a city troops had penetrated to the approaches of Leningrad.

Duisburg Bombed By R.A.F. Planes

LONDON (CP)—Royal Air

These daylight operations followed a night in which R.A.F.
bombers roared over the German industrial city of Duisburg causing large fires and explosions.

Nine British planes were lost in the night raid.

tivity over the British Isles con-

— AXIS ANNOUNCEMENT

BERLIN (AP)—Hitler and Mussolini have been meeting at Hitler's headquarters on the eastern front since Monday, an official announcement said today.

The five-day discussions, which ended today, covered political and military developments, the announcement said.

It was indicated particular attention was paid to the duration of the war.

The text of the statement from Hitler's headquarters said:

"The Fuehrer and Il Duce met at the Fuehrer's headquarters between August 25-29 in discussions which took place at the Fuehrer's headquarters for the north and south fronts. There was thorough discussions of all military and political questions concerning the development and duration of the war.

"The questions were studied in a spirit of close companionship and unity of fate which charac-terize relations of the Axis powers.

"The discussions were permeated with the unchangeable will of both peoples and their leaders to wage war to a victorious end."

Laval Near Death

PARIS (AP)—Doctors decided to attempt an emergency operation on Pierre Laval late this afternoon to remove a bullet from just below his heart. They had previously rejected surgery as too dangerous.

Fears for the 58-year-old pro-German leader mounted throughout the day as physicians attributed a sustained fever to a possible infection from the bullet wound, inflicted two days ago. A sudden turn for the worse in his condition occurred overnight.

The possibility of peritonitis was regarded as a mortal peril.

Because of the danger of disturbance, the examining magistrate for Paul Colette, who shot Laval and Marcel Deat Wednesday, and the prosecuting attorney were barred from the hospital room when they called before noon.

EXTEND POLICE DRIVE

It was learned French police had broadened their counter drive against opposition elements to include the French empire. A military tribunal at Veknes, French Morocco, sentenced two men to six years at hard labor for "an attack on the external security of the state."

A woman was condemned to three years in jail.

An investigation of the Caen home of the assassin, Paul Coi-ette, was said to have disclosed he had fought side by side with British troops at Dunkerque and had been evacuated with them to England. He was reported to have tried to return to England recently, presumably to join the Free French forces under Gen.
Charles de Gaulle. How he got back to France in the first place was not explained.

NOT COMMUNIST

It was learned Colette at least formerly was a member of the Fascist Croix de Feu Party led by Col. Francois de la Rocque.

Furthermore there has been no proof that he switched over to the Communist Party.

Nevertheless it was announced Colette will be tried by the new "Red" section of the appellate court, set up especially to try Communists, and that the investigation of the assassination attempts still will be aimed at uncovering possible Communist links.

Laval was reported to have asked mercy for Colette on the grounds he had been misled.

Strikes

BEING IRONED OUT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor disputes affecting four different unions in three trades were being ironed out here today.

Some 200 waitresses in 29 downtown Vancouver restaurants were back at work after a 10-minute layoff last night in protest against what they said was the failure of cafe operators to live up to an agreement signed August 9, calling for a $3 weekly increase and holidays with pay. Operators agreed to the raise today.

At the Morrison Steel and Wire Company Limited plant on Granville Island, day shift employees last night balloted unanimously to accept the offer of the company of a one-year working agreement involving wage increases and conditions asked for by the men but not including recognition of the Vancouver Metal Workers' Union as bargaining agents for the men.

MEETING AWAITED

At the Pacific Bolt Manufacturing Company Limited, a meeting tonight of representatives of the employees and officials of the company, is expected to decide whether the workers will strike or not.

In New Westminster employees of the Star Shipyard (Mercer's) late today as the first step in limited, will take a strike vote obtaining a federal conciliation board to investigate their dispute with company officials over wages and union recognition.

BACK ON JOB

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Co., said today more than 80 per cent of the day shift working on munitions work, were back on the job after striking last night.

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Dominion Coal Company laid off another 30 miners today from collieries engaged in a slowdown production policy and announced the output yesterday in its 10 mines—more than 13,000 tons—was the highest since June 25.

For the first time, the company suspended men employed in pits other than Caledonia, refusing lamps for a total of 20 loaders in numbers two and 20.

'They Are Swell'

Conscientious Objectors Praised By Authorities

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 900 young men of military age who profess conscientious objection to bearing arms now are at work in remote wooded areas, clearing trails and building roads.

After a few months' experience with the alternative plan for conscientious objectors, authorities are impressed with the willingness of the men to work and their amenability to camp life.

"Once we get them into the camps they are swell," said Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, associate deputy minister of national war services. "They work like Trojans. They are doing a great job."

Getting them to camp, however, is not so easy. Some fail to show up when ordered to report, their names are given to police, who arrest them, bring

Probes Logging In Butte Lake

A special report from forestry officers will be obtained by Hon. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, on the threat of logging operations to the beauty of Butte Lake on Vancouver Island.

Irving Brant, a special writer in the Times, said that loggers are now starting work near the north end of the lake and that if the timber is removed it will ruin one of the Island's great outdoor playgrounds.

Most of Butte Lake is in the Strathcona Park reserve, but a few miles at the north end is not included and is alienated land.

Mr. Gray said that while he knew there was logging going on in the region, he was not aware it was near the lake itself. He is instructing his forestry staff to investigate.

The suggestion has been made that the government might arrange an exchange of timber with holders of the logging rights at the lake, so that the virgin forest could be preserved.

Mr. Gray said he understood most of the timber near the lake was covered and that logging operations were some distance away.

The boundary of Strathcona Park cuts across Butte Lake, as if the park had been laid out by simply drawing a line on a map without regard to the contour of the country. The north end of the lake, just outside the park, is the most popular holiday resort.

DUNCAN FAIR SET FOR LABOR DAY

Duncan-wide interest is being displayed in the annual fair of the Cowichan Agricultural Society which will be held here on Monday.

In addition to the usual exhibits representative of the agricultural community there will be special events, including loggers' sports, chopping and sawing competitions, Highland dancing, horse racing and horse parades.

Visitors from all sections of the southern part of Vancouver Island will help to swell the crowds attending the fair.

Victoria visitors will include a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce of the Capital City.

Nanaimo Quarantine

NANAIMO (CP)—Several hundred men who began to arrive at Camp Nanaimo today from Prairie points will be quarantined for from 10 to 14 days in an isolated part of the camp to guard against the possibility of infantile paralysis developing.

them before the courts and usually secure convictions and jail sentences.

RELIGIOUS GROUPS

The objectors in the main are members of the Mennonite, Doukhobor and Seventh Day Adventist groups.

The Doukhobor group has a work camp of its own at Lac La Ronge, some 200 miles north of Prince Albert, Sask. The men are engaged in extending for another 50 miles the road which now runs 150 miles north from Prince Albert, to give access to a rich mineral area and a scenic paradise.

The largest single camp is at the Montreal River, north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where 290 objectors from Ontario points are at work on the trans-Canada highway.

The other alternative service camps are in the national parks. There are 200 men in Prince Albert Park, 290 in Riding Mountain, 150 in Jasper and 135 in Banff.

The work is mostly cutting and widening trails to give added fire protection by making it possible to rush in trucks and fire-fighting apparatus.

50 CENTS A DAY

The men get 50 cents a day and their food and lodging. They must provide their own clothes and toilet articles. They live mostly in large canvas tents, but if they remain at work throughout the winter will be moved into log huts.

A day in the life of a conscientious objector conscripted for labor service is much the same as that of a soldier in training. He must be up at a regular hour and make his bed before breakfast. He must be at work at 8 a.m., gets an hour for dinner at noon and works until supper time, about 5:30 p.m.

The men have their evenings to themselves, but may not leave camp without permission. They must be in bed at 10:30 p.m.

Cut Starts to Squeeze

Gas Running Short But Enough for Week-end

Gasoline stations in the outlying parts of Victoria began to run dry today as they used up their supply quotas for the week, but so far as could be learned few were attempting to ration motorists individually. The general custom was "first come first served until we run out."

A survey of stations indicated however there would be no serious gasoline shortage for this week-end, at any rate. Many of the larger city stations had quotas larger than they expected to sell.

Most operators, however, expressed the view that next month they would have to start cutting down supplies to individual motorists. Beginning September 1 their quotas are cut to 75 per cent of their July total.

Distributors have worked out station quotas and are leaving it to the station men how they wish to take them. They suggest taking the quotas by the week so that stations will not have a gas-less week at the end of the month.

"It looks as if the public will have to change their buying habits," said one large distributor today.

"Since the first of this month Saturday has been the big day of sales. People are buying two days' supply at the week-end. Now they will discover that stations run dry on Saturday. In some cases there will be gasless Saturdays as well as gasless Sundays. Motorists will have to spread their buying out during the week."

TWO GALLONS EACH

In Vancouver service station operators were rationing gasoline to drivers of private automobiles as supplies began to fall short.

One large downtown distributor limited customers to two gallons each while other stations refused to sell to transient customers and rationed regular customers to a certain number of gallons per week.

Transferred

'10,000-pound Bombs Possible'—Collishaw

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Air Commodore Raymond Collishaw, Canadian-born commander of the Royal Air Force units in the western desert and the man who smashed the bulk of the Italian air force, has been transferred elsewhere.

A native of Nanaimo, B.C., Collishaw was one of Canada's greatest airmen in the first Great War. He shot down 60 enemy planes, being out-ranked in this respect only by Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop and the late Billy Barker.

After the war, Collishaw remained in the R.A.F., doing most of his flying in the Middle East and for two years he commanded the air force station at Heliopolis, Cairo.

BLOW AFTER BLOW

With limited resources of bombers and fighters, Collishaw hammered blow after blow at the Italian air force after Mussolini threw in his lot with Hitler. Hundreds of Italian planes were destroyed on their own airfields and Hurricane, Gladiator and Tomahawk pilots shot down hundreds more in aerial combats.

"I bite them here and I bite them there," Collishaw explained waving his fingers over a big map.

"I give them no peace. That's the way, see! That fixes them!" "Collie," a friend of Balbo before the war, used to visit the Italian air ace and governor of Libya at Derna and Bengazi. He thus gained valuable knowledge of the terrain of the western desert over which his planes later operated against the Italians.

Recently, with greatly increased forces, due largely to shipments from the United States, Collishaw has been able to establish air supremacy which prevented the German air force and what is left of the Italian from the persistent dive-bombing or troop concentrations that featured earlier fighting in the desert.

MEDALS

Collishaw, who wears more medals than any other officer in the Middle East, always has been a keen supporter of aggressive tactics. He has ordered more than 70 bombing raids on Benghasi, Libya, since May 1, employing hundreds of aircraft.

Collishaw believes there is no limit to the size of bombs that will be used later in the war.

"There is no reason why we cannot use bombs weighing even 10,000 pounds or more," he said.

Many stories are told of Collishaw's calmness under fire.

When a lookout rushed into his operations room in the desert and reported "enemy kite overhead," Collishaw continued to study his maps and mumbled, "Tell them to go fly it somewhere else."

When an officer suggested the barracks in Solum were not a safe place for his advanced headquarters, Collishaw replied: "How many times must I tell you to pay no attention to Italian bombing. It's not worth it."

Bags 2 Nazis In 2 Minutes

WITH THE R.A.F. ON THE WESTERN DESERT (CP)—P.O. Stanley A. Wells of Weston, Ont., it was revealed today, shot down two Messerschmitt 109's in two minutes while engaged in protective patrol over naval units off Sidi Barrani, Egypt.

An account of his exploit was issued by the Air Ministry in London last night, but the name of the young Canadian was not disclosed until today.

Wells, son of a former president of Canadian National Telegraphs, is serving with a Tomahawk squadron over the western desert. He paid tribute to the qualities of his plane after returning from the successful operation.

"I must say the old Tomahawk is terrific," he said in describing his battle. "She seemed to have the legs of everything we met."

Wells said a dozen Messerschmitts flying over the Tomahawk squadron dive attacked in twos and threes.

"One came down for me. I pulled up the nose of the aircraft and let go hard as he went over. He went down into the sea at terrific speed. We reformed but

In Iran

Britain, Russia Capitalize Victory

BRITISH TROOPS HAVE OCCUPIED the vast Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. refinery, above, at Abadan, on the Persian Gulf. One of the world's three largest oil refineries, it produces from 200,000 to 300,000 barrels of oil a day. The refinery reportedly could produce enough oil to supply the whole British fleet.

Canadian and Associated Press. Britain and Russia moved swiftly today to complete their occupation of Iran and capitalize on gains of a joint invasion which ended in victory. The Iranian army laid down its arms yesterday after a four-day show of resistance a delayed Teheran dispatch stated.

Official quarters in London declined to say whether the Allies had presented peace terms to the Shah's government, but informed sources expressed belief London and Moscow would stand on these points.

1. That the Iranian government hand over all Germans still in the country—estimated to include some 3,000 technicians.

2. That Iran guarantee facilities for transport of war supplies from the Persian Gulf to Russia.

3. That a steady flow of oil be maintained to feed the British navy, army and air force in the Middle East.

It was regarded as a foregone conclusion the British and Russians would insist on retaining military control of all strategic points in Iran until the end of the war.

Announcement said a general shortage of foodstuffs existed throughout Iran and that arrangements had been made to send 700 tons of wheat into the southern sector occupied by Imperial forces. The food shortage, it was said, was such that local inhabitants said Iranian troops had been begging for supplies owing to short rations.

The Simla communiqué noted British reaching Kermanshah had called for immediate withdrawal of Iranian forces on learning Germans had been advising the Iranians on their defence plans there.

It added two of the anti-tank guns captured the previous day were of the latest Skoda manufacture.

Directors Visit Cobble Hill Fair

A delegation of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday visited the annual fall fair at Cobble Hill, which they reported was an outstanding success.

The delegation consisted of J. V. Johnson, president; G. Hamilton Harman, Capt. R. W. McMurray, W. T. Straith, K.C., and Norman Foster, assistant secretary of the chamber.

The party was shown around the fair by Lieut.-Col. F. T. Oldham, president of the fair committee. Much interest was shown in the livestock judging, a riding show and agriculture exhibits.

The chamber will send another delegation to the Cowichan fair at Duncan on Labor Day.

I was separated during the scramble. Ten of the enemy jumped on me, thinking I was easy meat, I suppose.

"I can't say I was too optimistic, but I let fly at the first and he went down. I saw him fall in shallow water 50 yards from shore."

"I managed to get back with the other boys. Jerry sheered off altogether."

Wells, who was educated at Lachine High School and Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., got his first Messerschmitt August 8.

British Grand Strategy

Maybe Wavell Not 'Kicked Upstairs'

By PAUL K. LEE

NEW YORK (AP)—When Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell was transferred suddenly, on July 2, from Britain's Middle East command to India, there was talk in some quarters this most successful British general had been kicked upstairs.

Now, eight weeks later, the transfer has fallen snugly into place like a curiously-shaped piece in a great jigsaw puzzle, filling out an important segment in the panorama of the war and of British grand strategy.

With Wavell in command of the British forces, the Anglo-Russian thrust against Iran appears on the verge of success in the fourth day of a smoothly-operating invasion like that with which Wavell dumbfounded the Italians in Libya.

SAFE SUPPLY ROUTE

It seems virtually certain a safe route for British and United States material aid for Russia in her war with Germany, and possibly for British troops as well, is to be opened up across Iran to Russia's Caspian Sea and Caucasus areas.

At the time of his transfer,

Wavell was subject of considerable gossip to the effect he was in semi-disgrace because his sweep into Libya was followed by reverses from German-reinforced Axis troops and Australian criticism of the Greek and Crete campaigns.

Prime Minister Churchill and the general himself kept silent. Today, the fact his Indian command is handling the Iranian situation appears to be both an explanation of the past and a tip-off of the future.

The oil of Iran makes that ancient kingdom a worthy prize in itself, but Iran alone could have been taken care of by the Middle East command.

The implication is that much of the material aid for Russia and possibly military aid as well, will come from India.

Whether United States had any foreknowledge of British intentions with regard to Iran is a matter of pure speculation, but she apparently was alive to the possibilities of the situation. On July 25 it was announced Lt.-Col. W. P. Draper and Lieut. V. H. Sutro had arrived in India as U.S. military observers.

INDIA ARSENAL

As an arsenal and troop reservoir for Britain, India has been active already. Details are secret, but British sources say India's war effort is increasing every day.

The trend seems to confirm what Hitler wrote 17 years ago in "Mein Kampf"—that India is the keystone of the British Empire and that Britain could not and would not let go there without "risking her last drop of blood."

Mr. Churchill has said that a Nazi victory over Russia would be "only a stepping-stone to India." A glance at the map will indicate that loss of India might well prove disastrous to Britain, for India is strategically situated to maintain contact with Malaya, Australia and New Zealand, Egypt and South Africa.

The Secretary of State for India, L. S. Amery, has estimated that India can raise at least 2,000,000 soldiers.

When he fell while working at the Victoria Machinery Depot plant at 4.15 Thursday afternoon, John Fellow, 1021 Government Street, suffered a fracture of the right leg and cuts on his face. He was taken to Jubilee Hospital in a C. & C. ambulance, where Dr. Herman Robertson attended him.

Acoustic Mine Replaces Magnetic; Sperry Bombsight Value Doubted

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — One of the more amazing and frightful aspects about the "science" of modern war is the way it has of developing while in progress. And the uncensored reports of observers returning to the United States bear proof that every day, in every way, it is becoming worse and worse.

The case of airplane speed and armament is a perfect example of war's increasing efficiency. It was only two years ago that the shooting began—how time does fly—but in the lovely harvest season of 1939, an airplane that could do 350 miles an hour was all right. Today, it must do 400 to 450, or be shot down. Airplane engines that could rate 1,000 or 1,500 horsepower could get by, but today 2,000 h.p. is a minimum, and 2,500 or better must be achieved soon if there is to be superiority in the air. Planes that could climb to 30,000 feet were safe in 1939, but today they must reach 40,000. Two machine guns and one cannon made combat planes pretty formidable in the old days, but today they pack three or four cannons and six or eight machine guns.

Newest device of death and destruction is reportedly the acoustic or harmonic mine. It is a successor to the magnetic mine, which became obsolete as soon as the magnetic belt was invented and all ships were equipped with this ring of cables through which a current was passed to set up an induction field that would counteract the magnetic field of the mine, making it harmless.

Not much is known about the acoustic mine, but the principle of its operation is fairly simple. Instead of being set off by the ship's natural magnetic field, it is set off by the vibration of the ship's engines, the transmission of sound waves through water.

It being practically impossible to build a vibrationless or perfectly silent ship, licking this acoustic mine may be a lot harder than overcoming the magnetic mine. One report in Washington is that the Germans have discontinued using the magnetic mine at sea, converting those on hand into land mines to drop by parachute from bombing planes.

THIS MOTOR MISS NO MISS

Another ingenious use of sound waves has been figured out by the German technicians. When German bombers first came over England, it was noticed their engines, instead of having a steady, even roar, seemed to exhaust unevenly and at variable pitch. British plane builders were at first inclined to scoff, saying the Nazis didn't know how to build good motors. But when the British plane-detecting devices tried to pick up German planes by means of mechanical ears and sound listening posts, it was found that this uneven beat of the German motors made extremely difficult the task of telling quickly the height of an attacking bomber. Now, it is understood, British bombing plane engines are also being re-gear to give off the uneven drone beat so as to throw off German listening posts.

Chatter about the mysterious Sperry bomb sight, perfected for use by U.S. bombers, has, of course, been limitless. Hailed as the greatest secret weapon of the present war, it enables bombers to drop their eggs in pickle barrels from 15,000 feet with uncanny regularity. It has been generally assumed that this device was given to the British, but there now comes from England reports that the Sperry bomb sight is of questionable value, for the reason that its use is dependent on perfect visibility—a condition frequently found on the bombing ranges near Denver and the California deserts, but only infrequently in Europe.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT ANTIQUATED?

Speaking of anti-aircraft guns, quite a point has been made that the United States defenses were practically a blank on this type of equipment. But some observers have returned with the theory that it doesn't make much difference, for anti-aircraft batteries seldom bring down a plane, and their use in keeping the bombers up high applies only to the area immediately above the battery.

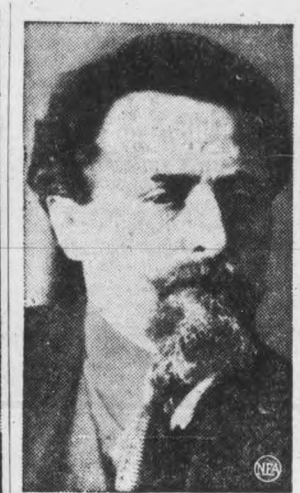

Another idea of defence that the British have had to modify to a certain extent is the use of volunteer fire fighters to combat conflagrations started by incendiary bombs. At first, it was the idea that the good tough Britons, springing from every cot, heath, and hedgerow, would stamp out the fires and protect their homes from the despoiler. But it hasn't worked out quite that way. It takes nerve to check these incendiary fires when thousands of bombs are dropping over a city, and under this type of raid, the volunteer is next to useless.

What it takes is professional fire fighters on the job all the time. And the real reason that British shipyards, docks, munitions plants and plane factories have been able to keep up their splendid records of production is that all these strategic centres have been protected by professional fire fighting units who stick on the job like soldiers, while the volunteers head for the bomb cellars or the hills.

Any place you look, you'll always find a poor professional beating a good amateur. Even at soldiering.

For Isolationists

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A site accommodating 10,000 persons is now assured for speeches by Charles A. Lindbergh and Senator Burton K. Wheeler tonight, the America First Committee said.

When the city council ordered cancellation of use of the municipal auditorium for Lindbergh's speech, state chairman Herbert K. Hyde of the committee declared the noted airman and isolationist would talk here even if they had to use a cow pasture.

The rally will be held on a sandlot ball park on the west edge of the city, although the state capitol grounds might have been obtained. Governor Leon C. Phillips did not object.

Wheeler, Montana Democrat and another well-known isolationist, made known his determination to speak from the same platform with Lindbergh in an announcement in Washington.

Lindbergh's 30-minute address on "Air Power" will be broadcast nationally.

The council's action was taken after five local organizations protested against renting the hall to Lindbergh.

Addressing the annual Marshall County old settlers' reunion, Wheeler claimed Lease-Lend funds are being misspent by British officials while "England is lending Stalin for five years $40,000,000,000 at 3 per cent interest."

"Don't you think we are being just so many sentimental suckers?" he asked.

(President Roosevelt at a press conference in Washington Tuesday branded as vicious rumor, distortion of fact or falsehood charges made in some quarters that Lease-Lend funds are being misused by British or other officials.)

OTTAWA (CP)—Low salaries paid to teachers in Canada came before the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association convention during a group discussion led by Dr. S. J. Willis, Deputy Education Minister in British Columbia.

"In most provinces salaries run under $700 a year. In certain provinces they were under $500."

"They want the best in personality for teachers," said Dr. M. E. LaZerte of Edmonton. "What can they get when your child or mine can go out in his summer holidays and get more money than his teacher?"

He suggested reports of teach-

Reason Dawning?

ALL IN GOOD TIME THE WORLD WILL learn what Japanese Premier Konoze said to President Roosevelt in an official communication to the White House yesterday. For the time being an expectant public must content itself with the delightfully vague announcement from Tokyo that it outlined the "imperial government's attitude toward the Pacific situation." The phrase is sufficiently embracing in its implication to stimulate fanciful speculation.

One aspect of this unusual method of diplomatic approach is singularly suggestive of a striking contrast between the attitude of Emperor Hirohito's ministers and that recently manifested by a large section of the Japanese press which has assumed to speak with semi-official authority. The Japan Times and Advertiser, for example, is reputed to be the journalistic voice of the Foreign Office. Its anti-democratic belligerency has become a legend. And the fact that the communication from Premier Konoze was addressed to the chief executive himself, and not to his Secretary of State, would seem to explain the urgency and seriousness which Japan now attaches to the more explosive factors in the "imperial government's attitude toward the Pacific situation" in general. Mr. Churchill's reference to Nippon's visibly expanding program in Asia, moreover, may have influenced the Konoze cabinet a good deal more than its newspaper supporters have been permitted to suggest.

It would be foolish to believe that the stage is being set for a program for the whole Pacific area—the application of which might present Japan with a way out of her Axis obligations. But the men of Tokyo and their journalistic mouthpieces have been breathing fire and brimstone for so long—plus, of course, a good deal of action in the South Pacific—that the time has arrived for them to make good their threats or listen to reason. No longer can there be any doubt in the Japanese official mind about the policy both the United States and Britain would follow if Nippon's so-called "co-prosperity sphere" is extended by further naval and military action. The showdown, in other words, would appear to be near.

Generalities Useless

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S ELECTORS WILL derive little benefit from Mr. Maitland's charge that the organization and resources of the Liberal Party and the concentrated energies of its supporters are being massed for the one selfish objective—an objective that puts the winning of the election before the winning of the war. If the leader of the Conservative Party really believes this is a fair preview of the political combat that will soon get under way—or one that will appeal to the good sense of the electorate—he is neither flattering the intelligence of the people of this province nor supplying anything but the flimsiest argument in support of his own and his party's case.

Mr. Pattullo would not be offending the canons of partisan propriety were he to ask Mr. Maitland how he proposes to use the organization and resources of the Conservative Party during the next few weeks if not to persuade the electors to turn out to the present government and elect one headed by himself. Indeed, the Premier owes it to the people of British Columbia to demand of his opponent his precise formula for adding more to this province's contribution to the national war effort than the present government and people are making; how, in short, British Columbia can more directly influence the outcome of the struggle if the next government shall be headed by the Conservative leader. Mr. Maitland should find it simple to answer these questions if he is convinced that the present administration is moved only by the urge to remain in power.

The Conservative chieftain's charge of extravagance is not new. It has been made by every party since Confederation; every party has been guilty of it to a lesser or greater degree. But if Mr. Maitland desires to depart from generalities and go into historic financial detail—the record, for example, of the government of which he was a member from 1928 to 1933—no doubt Mr. Hart will accommodate him and present him with an accurate account of British Columbia's credit status in the money markets at the end of the Tolmie regime.

We can hear the Conservative leader telling us that this is wartime, a period of crisis which bears no relationship to any other in Canada's history, a time to make every dime in every dollar do a full dime's work. Very true; and we still think drastic provincial economy must be the governmental watchword from now on. Here is Mr. Maitland's opportunity to tell the taxpayers just how he would pare down expenditure, what services he would curtail, what department is over-stuffed and costing too much for the value received; and how, generally, he proposes to revamp the financial structure. The people will want to know this. A national emergency has forced them to consider minute details; glittering generalities belong to the political dog days.

Turkey Next?

MEETINGS BETWEEN THE HEADS OF the two European Axis powers usually presage new developments in their war for world domination. Hitler and Mussolini have been in consultation at the Fuehrer's headquarters on the eastern front since Monday—according to an official announcement from Berlin today. This intimation follows closely on a dispatch from Istanbul yesterday which hinted that the government at Ankara would soon be presented with a demand for the use of Turkish territorial waters in the Black Sea for Axis fighting craft and other shipping. This report, of course, was accompanied by the customary assurance that further accommodation would not be needed—such as, for example, concessions with respect to the Dardanelles or other Turkish territory.

For several weeks no secret has been made of the fact that Axis forces were assembling in large numbers in Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece in readiness for any new move Hitler may write down in his program. The suggestion that this threat to Turkish frontiers is "purely a diversion" to worry Britain finds little to support it in what has gone before. The progress of the campaign against Russia is not fooling the German high command. The scorched-earth policy which Stalin is ruthlessly applying is seriously upsetting both the military and economic calculations of the men of Berlin. And German morale may be in need of something more spectacular than the capture of useless territory and thousands of prisoners who must now be fed by the Reich.

It would not be surprising if this latest meeting between the two thugs, therefore, will result in placing the new Turkey squarely up against the necessity of making the gravest decision of her young life. As one of the wonders of community progress during the breathing spell which separated the first Great War from the present conflict, her position is far from an enviable one. But she assuredly understands Nazi policy; she knows also that Turkish soldiers are among the finest in the world.

Iran's Wise Choice

ALTHOUGH THE PROSPECT OF ACTING as host to British and Russian troops for the duration of the war may not be an altogether pleasant one for Shah Riza Khan Pahlevi, he will eventually—if he does not already—realize that representatives of the anti-totalitarian powers will live up to their promises and protect the political and territorial integrity of Iran in all its basic particulars. Britain and the Soviet Union had no alternative to the course they have reluctantly taken if their own interests and the interests of the defenders of the freedom of all peoples were to be served while there was yet time to prevent further trouble.

The men of Berlin intended to use Iran, her strategic position and her economic potentialities, for the sole purpose of facilitating the Axis program for the whole world. Had the Nazi technique of collaboration been allowed to develop into the familiar pattern of "protective custody" and eventual domination, still another country would have been treated just as Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria and France have been treated. Hitler would have laughed in the face of the Shah on the first sign of disapproval; political independence and territorial integrity find no place in the Axis lexicon; Iran has geographical and commercial advantages essential to the Nazi high command's plans for the subjugation of all states obstructing the way to India. The ruler and ministers of Iran were not blind to this; they had, wittingly or unwittingly, allowed themselves to fall into the trap so cunningly laid for them.

How the new government at Tehran under the premiership of Ali Furanghi will conduct itself in the light of the circumstances with which it is confronted will depend, by the same token, upon the manner of co-operation proposed and carried out by Britain and Russia. Certain basic privileges are essential; these include the safe-guarding of the oil wells and the assurance of continuous supplies for Allied use, together with the right to transport men and equipment through Iranian territory, for as long as the emergency shall so require.

Although this accommodation will override Iran's determination to resist any interference with her neutrality and independence for the time being, Shah Pahlevi must realize that by agreeing to the cessation of his one-sided but natural defence of his country will prove a much better bargain than that which would have resulted if he had continued to struggle against overwhelming odds.

THE BOOING INCIDENT

From Winnipeg Free Press

Prime Minister King last Saturday visited the Canadian troops in England and addressed a great gathering of them in a sports stadium. He was greeted with cheers and applause, but there was also a considerable amount of booing from some of the soldiers. This report was very surprising to the people back home, and the Canadian Press did well to promptly investigate the meaning of the incident.

It now reports that it was just a lark on the part of the soldiers and an expression of their impatience at having to wait so long to take any active part in the war.

This was borne out by the great burst of cheers when Mr. King intimated that he understood that many were impatient and "would rather be engaged in more active operations than you are today." The response to this statement, says the Canadian Press, was the greatest demonstration of the day.

Thus, the booing, surprising as it was, had no serious significance, as some may have feared.

HAPPY RETURN

HOW WONDERFUL IT is to return to work from a brief holiday! With what pleasure the worker turns once more to the satisfactions of daily toil, to the joy of functioning as a productive member of the human family, to the immemorial rewards of honest labor!

That is why I love to come home after a fortnight when I have been torn from my work and hurried, unwillingly, into the woods to recover what they call my sanity. Yet many people are surprised to know that men who write in the newspapers need a holiday. You mean, they say, that a man gets paid for merely sitting down and pounding a typewriter for a few hours every day?

You mean that anyone can get tired from so gentle an exercise, which involves only the fingers and not even the whole arm? You mean you get tired when better men are swinging sledge hammers or pushing wheelbarrows? Nor will men who swing sledge hammers and push wheelbarrows ever understand why men who pound typewriters like to spend their holidays swinging sledge hammers and pushing wheelbarrows, as if that were a beautiful rest from an intolerable burden.

It is the burden of responsibility, not merely the exercise of the fingers on the typewriter, keys that exhausts a man. It is the awful responsibility of talking to the public every night. The responsibility, indeed, would become unbearable if one did not know positively that the public pays no attention whatever and never believes a word.

Thus one returns to work with joy and eagerness, glad to leave the woods, glad to embrace the daily grind once more. And only waiting to qualify for an old age pension so that one may retire to the woods for good and bid the world farewell.

BEAUTIFUL SPY

ON MY RETURN I find on my desk a clipping from the Winnipeg Free Press containing the usual heartless slander against Victoria. Mr. Ferguson has been at it again. This time he has suborned an innocent school teacher of Winnipeg, who has been traveling in these parts. Undoubtedly by bribery, promising perhaps, to publish her picture in the newspaper, he has induced her to bear fantastically false witness against Victoria. This poor, corrupted creature has assured the readers of the Free Press that Victoria was baked brown all summer, intolerably hot and all its male inhabitants engaged in fighting forest fires. Mr. Ferguson believes himself that at night the pest carts gathered up the dead who died of drought on the streets, but he says he has no reliable evidence on that point.

Poor Ferguson! Poor corrupted school teacher and spy! One knows how they feel, what bitterness, disappointment and envy cause them to smear their betters. Why, in Winnipeg in the summer, when a man wants to go for a drive in the country, he merely props up the hind wheels of his car in the garage and starts the engine going. There is just as much pleasure sitting there in the garage, listening to the sound of the engine as in driving across the monotonous prairies. Thus people spend their holidays locked in their own garages, envying Victoria, because they have nowhere else to go. I have no anger for such poor locked-up and frustrated creatures as Mr. Ferguson and the beautiful Mata-Hari who heads his espionage system. I have only pity. They are poisoned by the fumes of the exhaust.

CHEERFUL NEWS

ON MY DESK also on my return found the latest estimates of Canada's war costs. They make interesting reading for the morbid mind. I dare say the public has paid no attention to them because the public after all, is only the fellow who pays the bill. Anyway, they show one thing quite clearly—we are not yet paying for our war program. We have not yet faced the bill. We are going behind by incredible figures which, before the war, would have appalled every economist and caused every banker to write us off as bankrupt.

But that is not all. The latest news from Ottawa shows that the war program, for which we have not yet paid, is growing daily by leaps and bounds. The army is to be increased, the fleet is to be doubled, the air force enormously expanded. Obviously our war costs are going up and up.

One does not need to be an economist to understand what this means. One only needs to add a few simple figures together to see that we face in Canada enormous new taxation, or loans, or both. Either that, or we can pay for the war by creating new money, which is called inflation, but merely means that prices are raised so high that we can't buy goods. One way or another we have got to reduce our demands on the productive machinery of the nation so that it can turn out the unusable products of war already ordered. In plain terms, we have got to reduce our living standard to pay the bill already contracted in our name, and the still larger bill to be contracted.

Ah, yes, it is fine to get home from a holiday.

MODERN SELLING reports a new high in advertising. Max Schilling, the New York florist, ran a whole ad in shorthand in the New York Times. Of course curious businessmen cut it out, handed it to their secretaries for translation. It asked them to—think of Schilling when the boss wanted flowers for his wife.

LAVAL GETS HIS

The shooting of the contemptible traitor, Pierre Laval, will send a shiver through the hearts of all the Quislings in all the countries overrun by Hitler, where native Judases have sold out their countrymen. It is obviously the first of many to come.

Few things are certain in this world of change. But one thing increasingly clear is that those who preached non-resistance to Nazi violence, with the net result that their own people were delivered into slavery to the would-be masters of all mankind, will themselves meet sudden and violent death.

While there is poetic justice, and grim irony, in this prospect, there is another side to the picture: It will tend to stiffen the resistance of the whole German nation, and thus prolong the war unless anti-Nazi statesmen point a way out for those otherwise cornered by their own activities.

It is not only the Laval, the Darlans, the Quislings, who know that, in the event of Nazi defeat, certain vengeance awaits themselves. The German army sees it coming. The whole German nation knows that it has become Public Enemy No. 1. In every corner of Europe where Nazi armies were resisted it was not only that whole sections of the local population were scientifically wiped out, as by the mass bombing of Rotterdam, or the wholesale, prolonged and deliberately planned human slaughter in Poland. It was also that the victim nations saw their children starved according to plan; and saw their countries looted according to a scheme which obviously had taken years of preparation.

Our part of the world, even yet, does not clearly realize that the Nazi technique of conquest in this war is unlike anything known to modern history. The defeated countries were swept clean of everything from writing paper in the stationers' shops to art treasures in the museums. Entire factories were dismantled and moved to Germany if this happened to be in line with the master plan for Hitler's slave-plantation Europe. Those industries which were allowed to operate, as in France, were transferred to Nazi control by a financial manipulation which makes Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford look like a piker.

THEY SEE IT COMING

As one of the best U.S. correspondents recently pointed out on return from Germany, this sense of guilt on the part of the whole German people is one of the most dangerous features of the whole war situation. They know that no power on earth is going to be able to protect them from the vengeance of those they have robbed, tortured, and murdered. Hence they tend to solidify their ranks, if only for self-protection.

This seems to me to offer a real challenge to our leadership. We must devise ways and means of allowing the mass of less directly responsible Germans to escape from what might be called their own trap. Otherwise we face a fight prolonged and incalculable.

Documents captured from Germans on the Russian front bear clear evidence that this sense of guilt—this sense of coming vengeance—is already having the effect of wholesale demoralization within the ranks of the German army. As early as August 31, 1940, Von Brauchitsch was sternly rebuking officers for their conduct in France. Another order, dated July 24 of this year, is addressed from the high command on "the plunder and destruction of populated places." It complains at the "craving for destruction." An order of the 125th infantry division, amplifying this, declares that individual soldiers "have no right to undertake requisitions of private property on their own initiative."

Perhaps it is just wishful thinking on my part, but these things seem to me real evidence of potential collapse in the great Nazi war machine.

The Nazi advent in Europe sowed the wind which will reap the whirlwind. The trouble with whirlwinds is that they are no respecter of persons.

STONE-HOBSON

Two well-known young Duncan people were the principals at a wedding at St. Peter's Church, Quamichan, yesterday afternoon, between Patricia Leary, elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. K. Hobson, Duncan, and Mr. Paul Barnard Stone, twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Stone, "Stonehaven," Duncan. The service was fully choral, and Rev. H. T. Archbold officiated, assisted by Canon T. M. Hughes, in a setting of gladioli and dahlias in the pastel tones. Mr. B. W. Clement played the wedding music.

Dr. Hobson gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of white slipper satin, with full skirt, puffed sleeves, sweetheart neckline and shirred sleeves in bracelet length. Her veil of embroidered net fell to floor-length from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Her two bridesmaids were her sister, Joyce, and a friend from Vancouver, Betty Vickers, with little Maureen Cromie as a flower girl. They all wore floor-length dresses of blue net, head-dresses of blue net, and pink gardenias. Their bouquets were of pink and white sweet peas. Mr. Peter Stone, the groom's brother, was best man, and Messrs. Hector Stone and Jim Hobson were ushers.

Many guests were welcomed at the reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Hobson wearing a gown of dove grey wool crepe, a large black picture hat and violet and black accessories, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Carlton Stone in a printed silk dress, with green sheer redingote, gold hat and gold accessories.

The three-tiered cake centred the bride's table, flanked with silver vases of white carnations and white tapers in silver candlesticks. Mr. Boyd Gilmour proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone will make their home on Banks Road, Duncan, on their return from their honeymoon, for which the bride left in a rose sheer ensemble, with Queen's blue topcoat, navy blue hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Cyril Smith and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Lefroy, Mr. and Mrs. Fearman and Mr. and Mrs. Korner, all of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. N. Fish and daughter of Brentwood.

DARK-OWEN

A Victoria sailor was the bridegroom at a recent wedding at the United Church manse at Courtenay, when Miss Annie Priscilla Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy L. Owen of Little River, became the bride of Gordon Dark, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Callaway, 1186 View Street, Victoria. The bride was educated in Comox and was employed to the time of her marriage as a nurse at St. Joseph's hospital. The groom is a leading cook at H.M.C.S. Nadeh III, Comox.

The bride was attired in a beige crepe dress with blue accessories and a corsage of talisman roses and blue delphinium as Rev. J. S. Clark of St. George's United Church, conducted the ceremony. Her maid of honor was Miss Josephine Lubreski, also a nurse at the hospital, while the groom was supported by his friend C.P.O. George Dufour of Naden III.

Following the ceremony 50 guests greeted the couple at a reception at the home of George Dufour, Comox. Refreshments were served in the beautifully-decorated living-room and the toast to the happy couple was proposed by Mr. Dufour.

Following a brief honeymoon, which was spent at Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. Dark have taken up residence at Comox.

P. W. Luce to Address Channel Islanders

Channel islanders meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. H. M. Dumbleton, Michigan Avenue, will be addressed by P. W. Luce, well-known journalist of Vancouver, who will speak on the German occupation of Jersey and Guernsey.

Mr. Luce probably knows more on this subject than any other man in Canada, by virtue of his office as secretary of the B.C. Channel Islanders' Society, which he helped to organize a little more than a year ago.

Since last October this society has sent nearly $1,500 to assist Channel Islands' war refugees in distress in Great Britain. In addition, 50 cases of reconditioned clothing and blankets have been shipped overseas. It is to stimulate interest in these efforts that Mr. Luce is coming to his fellow Channel Islanders tomorrow.

MR. T. G. DALZELL

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McHutchon, 2671 Margate Avenue, Oak Bay, announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Irene May, to Mr. Tom Gordon Dalzell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dalzell, 850 Somenos Street, Victoria. The wedding is to take place at St. Matthias Church September 27.

MISS I. M. McHUTCHON

Social and Personal

Another in the series of informal presentations honoring Mrs. E. W. Hamber took place at Government House this afternoon when the executive of the Local Council of Women called to give tangible expression to the general regret of organized women at the pending departure of the popular chateleine of Government House.

Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, the president, on behalf of the council, presented Mrs. Hamber with a beautiful handwrought silver rose bowl, suitably inscribed, and in a few words attested to the generous help given by His Honor and Mrs. Hamber to the many causes embraced by the council, and their kindly hospitality at all times. In the delegation, which was entertained at tea by Mrs. Hamber, were Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. W. J. H. Holmes, Mrs. I. Fleming, Mrs. Wm. McManus, Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, Miss L. M. Savory, Mrs. J. L. R.C.A.P.C. Auxiliary Thanked for Gifts To Britons

"How can I thank you for the splendid parcel which we received today. It was a joy to go through it. We sorted out the heavy woollen things for winter use and the lighter things were disposed of at once. Please convey our sincere thanks to all our kind friends in Canada who are helping us so generously. Their gifts are a godsend."

The above is an extract from a letter from the headmistress of a school in the East End of London, attended by about 180 children of dockers who have suffered terribly in the air raids, and written to Mrs. Vincent Massey in appreciation of comforts sent from Victoria.

Mrs. Massey enclosed a copy of the letter, together with others in similar vein, in writing to the R.C.A.P.C. Auxiliary here to thank them for a further consignment. Her letter to the auxiliary says:

"A thousand thanks for that wonderful parcel of men's civil defence things and the women's socks, too, are so useful. They have gone at once to some of the A.T.S. women and, also to the women in the civil defence. You can imagine what the things you have sent will mean on the long, foggy nights."

READY FOR HITLER

One of the wardens in charge of a civil defence post in London writes: "I have been asked to thank you sincerely for the warm and beautiful socks you so kindly sent us. The civil defence workers of London are out in all weathers and for long periods and it is comforting to know that our friends in far-off Canada are thinking of us, and we in London are grateful for all you are doing."

Final registration for the Victoria unit of the Women's Ambulance Corps will be held in the Douglas Hotel Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Plaque Presented To I.O.D.E. By Air Ministry

TORONTO (CP)—Air Minister C. G. Power said in an address at the Canadian National Exhibition here yesterday that the Allies are getting into position to "start and achieve final victory."

The minister gave his address after he had unveiled a plaque presented to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire by Lord Beaverbrook on behalf of the British Ministry of Aircraft Production in recognition of the I.O.D.E.'s efforts in raising money for aircraft.

"We have been able merely to survive hitherto," Mr. Power said. "We are now about to start and achieve final victory."

The minister congratulated the I.O.D.E. on the order's purchase of a Bolingbroke bomber and several fighter planes for service overseas.

"The women have done magnificent work," he said. "Ever since the war the I.O.D.E. has been the foremost organization and this plaque is only one tangible evidence that their work is appreciated."

The following inscription was on the plaque: "In the hour of peril, Daughters of the British Empire earned the gratitude of the British nation, sustaining the valor of the Royal Air Force and fortifying the cause of freedom by the gift of fighter aircraft. They shall mount up with wings as eagles."

Says U.S. Manpower Not Needed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Col. Charles Sweeney, commander and founder of the Eagle Squadron, all-American unit with the Royal Air Force, declared yesterday Britain can win the war only with land forces on the European continent.

"England with the help of Russia, and perhaps even the Chinese, can muster a fighting force of 14,000,000," Col. Sweeney said. "I do not think American manpower will be needed if we can supply the Russians with enough war materials."

The Eagle Squadron, he said, actually consists of three squadrons, comprising 163 Americans, with 412 more men in training.

"So far only one squadron, No. 71, of the Americans has engaged in any fighting, but it already has 18 Nazi planes to its credit," he added.

Lake Hill Women's Institute will hold regular monthly meeting on Tuesday at 2.30. Members are asked to attend if possible.

Wider Library Service Urged

"More circulation statistics fall to measure the service our libraries can give," Mrs. Mary Duncan Carter, Los Angeles, said last night in an address at the annual conference of the Pacific Northwest Library Association.

Mrs. Carter, director of the School of Library Science at the University of Southern California, said libraries were known by their service to the public and that she felt librarians perhaps had leaned too hard on statistics.

"Are we going to be satisfied that we have accomplished our goal if we circulate a huge number of detective stories?" she asked. "Of course, we might say that detective stories are necessary as an escape in these times. We must distribute them where needed, but we must not think that then we have reached the end of our services."

HELP ADULT EDUCATION

Libraries were important as an instrument of adult education, Mrs. Carter said, and a big opportunity was to be found in forums and discussion groups.

"There are some who maintain the library's function is just to distribute books," she admitted, "but people have to do some talking as well as reading and perhaps the library is the best place for the airing of views. Why should librarians not be prepared to lead discussions?"

Librarians, Mrs. Carter maintained, usually were inadequately prepared for administrative duties. "We know little about public or business administration," she said. "We should realize how little we know and try to remedy the situation. We have to defend the needs of the library, and we know if we are to be considered as an agency for the public good, we should be able to measure our service. We all must solve this problem."

Another problem facing librarians, Mrs. Carter said, was that of personnel.

"If we don't have well-satisfied staffs working together for common aims, we are not going to accomplish all we might," she declared. "I think we should have free discussion among staff members concerning their work. Young members may be bursting with ideas; good or bad, which they are given no opportunity to express, and they may feel that they are getting in a rut."

Mrs. Carter also recommended that librarians take full advantage of research studies. "There is an art to book selection," she said, "but a full study of the use of books will help, too. Try to carry on the art and study together."

Speaking later in a panel discussion on library publicity, Mrs. Carter described radio work done by her department. Surveys showed, she said, that radio publicity for library work had a comparatively limited appeal.

"Don't think you are going to change the reading habits of your entire public," she said, "but do try, with the best program in your physical power, to challenge the interests of that section of the public which listens."

Miss N. M. Hincks, Nelson, said a library publicity program carried on by radio in her district had been an amazing ambassador of good will, although it was difficult to ascertain its effect on circulation.

Dorothy Crighton of the Provincial Library, leader of the discussion, said publicity work in connection with libraries might better be termed public relations, since one of the chief problems was to determine what services were needed most by the community at certain times.

(Serves 6)

Three large cucumbers, 1½ cups medium white sauce, ½ cup grated cheese, 1½ cups flaked cooked fish, pepper and salt, ½ cup dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon melted butter.

CANADIAN NURSES OVERSEAS have fun, as they huddle informally round the handsome grand piano for a sing-song at Digswell Place, the beautiful mansion at Welwyn, Hertfordshire, England, which has been lent for the war's duration by Col. and Mrs. Maitland to the nursing sisters of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps for use as a "leave" home, where the nurses may spend days and week-ends off duty or sick leave. Such generous loans have been made by many of Britain's wealthy families, who realize and act on their wartime duty.

Over All Lines

George Athans, popular Vancouver diver who splits his time between the University of Washington and Santa Barbara, and who has given some of the best exhibitions Victorians have ever seen, is now teaching Errol Flynn, Barbara Hutton and Doris Duke Cromwell some wrinkles on springboard work at the California resort, according to word received by relatives here.

It takes concrete evidence to convince highly-propagandized Nazis the war is not going quite as quickly as Goebbels would have them believe. A Victorian home from convoy duty reports the rescue of four German U-boat crewmen from the Atlantic. Taken prisoners aboard the convoy ship, one of the young Nazis, educated in Britain in prewar days, expressed full belief the German high command was in London. Nothing the crew or officers could tell him would change his opinion when he received bacon and eggs for breakfast. Even he knew such luxuries were not available in Nazi-dominated countries or on the boats under their control.

School opening at 10 instead of 9 will be introduced at Courtenay so that daylight saving, if it continues in the winter, will not mean starting out in early morning darkness for pupils a long way from school.

Victoria would welcome the newest wrinkle for collecting reading matter in Winnipeg for the troops. Miniature red and white bins dot the streets of that city, and each bin invites citizens to drop magazines into it. The magazines are collected and sent to military camps.

There were 468,267 marriages in England and Wales last year, 28,573 more than in 1939. The marriage rate per 1,000 for 1940 was 22.6. This is the highest on record, and compares with 21.2 in 1939, and an average of 17.4 during the four preceding years. The previous highest rate except for 1939 was 20.2 in 1920. Live births during 1940 numbered 607,131, or 12,221 fewer than during 1939, giving a birthrate of 14.6, against 14.9.

Bomber pilots who are now ferrying planes from California to Honolulu and also those crossing to Bermuda have a piece of strange equipment in case of emergency. It's a little rubber mask they slip on in case the bomber plunges into the ocean. The mask condenses their breath, produces about a cupful of water a day which will hold them while they're waiting for a rescue if it doesn't take too long.

A service station operator has a suggestion for proper tire inflation. His advice is to keep your tires five pounds above the pressure as recommended in your service manual. That will take care of normal leakage in this weather and the inflation should be made at least once a week. Proper inflation does these things, says he: Saves gasoline, saves tires, prevents nerve strain from hard steering.

"At the beginning of the tourist season, there was every possibility that the 1941 Canadian tourist traffic would perhaps reach an all-time high," Walter P. Zeller, executive to the Minister of National War Services, says, "but the latest reports show a definite decline in the rate of increase over last year."

The paper of your better grade magazines is about to become darker in shade any issue now. Chlorine's the principal bleaching agent for such paper stock and the stuff has had its use nationally restricted by the defence program.

Imports of tapioca must be cut down to save space on freighters from the East Indies. That affects not only your pudding, but also the starch for the paste on the back of the postage stamps you lick, and the starch in your boiler shirt.

U.S. Bureau of Standards has proposed reducing number of colors of paints and varnishes from 218 to 153 as a defence economy.

The 32,000 rural mail carriers in the United States are now selling defence savings stamps.

Life insurance sales are 7 per cent more than a year ago.

WINCHELL SHRIMPS: Wash green shrimps. Put in a large iron kettle (that can be covered). Pour over them 1 quart of sour cooking wine, either red or white (sour vinegar with a heavy "mother" will do). Add a heaping handful of salt (a man's way of measuring); generous portion of pepper (2 tbsps.), 2 oz. can of mustard. Cook over hot fire, stirring constantly. When the shells are loose, shrimp is done (about 15 minutes). Take out of the liquid, serve about 12 on a plate. The guests do their own peeling and eat them after dipping in drawn butter.

Kinsmen Club to Pick Car Winner

The Kinsmen's Boys' Band will be featured in a concert at Beacon Hill Park tomorrow night at 8. Assisting artists will be Miss Peggy Walton and Pierre Timp.

The winner of the Ford de luxe sedan on which tickets were sold by the Victoria Kinsmen Club to raise their quota of the National War Services objective of their organization will be announced. Funds raised in excess of this amount are being turned over to the Lord Mayor's Fund.

The Kinsmen Club is playing a very definite part in the war effort. To date the members have collected over 50 tons of magazines and distributed these to the men of the merchant marine. They recently purchased for the use of the Canadian Dental Corps the first mobile dental clinic, to be used by the British armies.

Now they are busy building hostel houses at the larger military camps across Canada. At least four of these are planned and two are ready for occupancy. These houses are turned over to the Y.W.C.A. to operate and provide a place where families of the soldiers may meet. The houses are equipped with dormitories so if hotels are not available visitors may be accommodated for the night. These houses were not included in the budget drawn up by the Y.W.C.A., prior to the war services campaign, and had it not been for the efforts of the Kinsmen, it would not have been possible to have built them this year.

ROTARY SPEAKER RIDICULES HITLER

There never will be a permanent peace for the world, said Lieut.-Col. C. Seymour Bullock, South, Bend, Indiana, to the Rotary Club luncheon Thursday, until it has been freed from the psychology of present-day German leaders. German psychology is that happiness is gained through another person's misery, joy comes from another's pain and satisfaction is derived from another person's sufferings.

Lieut.-Col. Bullock received his rank in the 1914-18 Great War in which he recruited men in Canada for the battle against Germany and was wounded in France.

The speaker referred to the rape of Czechoslovakia, assaults upon Holland and Belgium, bombing of defenseless cities in England by the Germans in the present war and said:

"I bring no railing accusations against Germany as a whole. My charge is that the Germany of today has lost the power of self restraint and restraint in the time of emergency is the real test of civilization. Submitted to this test the Germany of Hitlerism fails to register as being safe for the world."

Lieut.-Col. Bullock who traveled and spent considerable time in Germany prior to the war, ridiculed Adolf Hitler in his claims that it was the German generals who were running the present Nazi campaign of oppression.

NOT BRIGHT

"From my conversations in Germany in 1937, I gathered that the grandfather of Hitler was named Schickelgruber and that he died a bachelor," he said. "The grandmother was named Heidler and Adolf's father took her name and changed it to Hitler."

"Not at all brilliant or even intellectually bright, Hitler as a boy attended the four lower classes of a secondary school and left when he was about 13 years of age. He never had any directed course in thinking but very early decided to become an architect. His failure to pass the entrance examinations of an art school seems to have warped his whole being."

"Hitler joined the German army in 1914. Here again there was no exceptional brilliancy as it took him, in a time when promotions were rapid, four years to get from the ranks as a private to those of a lance-corporal. Great generals are not made of that kind of stuff."

"In his own story of his life as given in 'Mein Kampf,' which, by the way, he did not write, Hitler says that he was wounded on the Somme in 1916 and that he was blinded by gas on the Yser in 1918. A study of the records shows that neither of these statements are true and that the only hospitalization he had was diagnosed as 'hysterical amblyopia,' which means that he was temporarily blinded by hysteria due to subconscious fear."

"The present-day Hitler is a demigod fattened on his own conceit. He has all the boldness of a loud-speaker. The source of his wisdom seems to be the crystal ball into which he intently gazes and sees the things his astrologer, Karl Voigt, tells him to see." Miss Bernice Brown, Hollywood, was encored for her vocal renditions prior to the address.

By PETE SALLAWAY

WHEN ABE SIMON and Buddy Baer tangle in a return heavyweight fight at New York next month it will certainly be a case of plenty of quantity but very little quality. The pair are slated to struggle through 15 rounds for nothing at all. But it seems that the bigger they are the harder they fall, so promoter Mike Jacobs hopes to do $40,000 worth of business.

Simon and the younger Baer aren't the largest pair who ever hooked up, but they'll do until there is a demand for greater gross tonnage.

The maximum was reached at Madison Square Garden, March 15, 1935, when Primo Carnera stopped the good-natured oaf, Ray Impellitteri, in nine. The Imp stood 6 feet 7 1/2 inches, and weighed 260 pounds. Prime Beef Carnera towered 6 feet 6 1/2 inches and scaled 255 pounds.

Until The Imp and Satchel Carnera came along, Jess Willard and Carl Morris held the record at 250 and 235, respectively. Carnera and Vittoria Campolo offered one another sizable targets as did Carnera and Pat Redmond, the Australian Irishman, and Fred Fulton and Old Harry Willis.

But Simon and B. Baer, at 6 feet 4 and 255 and 6 feet 6 1/2 and 242, respectively, top them all except Carnera and The Imp.

Oddly enough, Simon and Baer looked their best against Joe Louis, which is scarcely complimentary to the champion, though the chances are he was only kidding.

Members of The-Bum-of-the-Month Club in good standing, Simon stood Louis off for 13 heats in Detroit, while Baer went out in six after belting Joe through the hemp in the opening period.

The first meeting of Simon and Baer saw the former whale the tar out of Maxie's little brother for a round and a half only to run out of gas and be halted in three. A badly cut lip didn't help the then pregreen Simon in that semifinal to the Louis-Farr shindy in August, 1937.

James J. Johnston now says that Simon will flatten Baer, and Ancil Hoffman has an idea his Buddy will repeat. "Someone is wrong."

Baer is the sharper hitter, but Simon takes a punch very well for an over-stuffed gent. Simon looked like a one-handed fighter against Louis, but contends his right was jammed.

Simon, a Long Beach cop, wears a 19 1/2 collar, Baer 17 1/2. Abe is bigger around the waist, 39 inches to 37 for Buddy, who has the longer reach, 80 inches to 77 1/2.

Everything will be all right as long as they don't go down at the same time. A double knock-out would wreck the place.

Simon joined the United States National Guard a few years ago. His fingers are so large it was impossible for him to get them inside the trigger guard of a gun, so they made him a color-sergeant. He had the same trouble with a revolver when he became a special policeman at Long Beach, so they made him a traffic officer. A ring worn on his pinky swivels around a 250-pounder's thumb.

Pugilism never before saw hands so big. They hang like bunches of bananas. A bout was recently called off because they couldn't find gloves big enough for him.

Until he was 13, Simon was just an average sized boy. Then he shot up so quickly the kids he played with were too small for him. The older boys would have nothing to do with him, because size or no, he was just a big kid. A very big kid.

Jock Whitney and Gene Tunney first had Abe Simon, but it remained for Jimmy Johnston to make profitable goods out of such a large package.

ENTHUSIASTIC BROOKLYN CROWD evades police and ushers to congratulate Peter Reiser after young centerfielder whaled ninth-inning home run to give Brooklyn 6 to 5 baseball victory over Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field. Joe Medwick has to do some shoving to get to the plate for handshake.

Cards Only Game Back

Pollet Hurls Well

Howard Pollet is a young fellow baseball fans might as well get acquainted with quickly because he is going to be a great star and may help squeeze St. Louis Cardinals into this year's National League championship.

He is the 20-year-old southpaw who turned the Texas League upside down for Houston before the Cards promoted him a couple of weeks ago. Down there he won 20 games and lost four, had an earned-run average of 1.06, and pitched five shutouts, including a no-hitter.

Yesterday he shut out New York Giants 5 to 0 on three scattered singles. His triumph over the Giants came while the Dodgers had an open day and shaved Brooklyn's first-place margin to one game.

The National League had another spectacular pitching show as Boston downed Chicago Cubs 2 to 1. Tom Earley held the Cubs to two hits, one of them a homer by Phil Cavaretta in the ninth.

Pittsburgh edged out the Phillies 3 to 2 with three runs in the ninth inning, two of them on a double by Lee Handley.

New York Yankees maintained their 17-game lead in the American League by bopping St. Louis, Browns 8 to 5 in 10 innings. The Yanks blasted across three tallies in the extra frame with apparent ease. Tom Henrich knocked in two of them with a double and also hit his 26th homer with one on in the third.

17TH VICTORY

Thornton Lee, the year's outstanding lefthander in the American League, chalked up his 17th victory by holding Washington Senators to four singles while Chicago White Sox rolled to a 4 to 0 shutout. Taft Wright had a perfect day at bat with a double and two singles.

Rudy York hit a home run with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to give Detroit Tigers an 8 to 7 triumph over Boston Red Sox after homers by Ted Williams and Joe Cronin had headed the Sox into an early lead.

Dick Siebert singled with the bases loaded to score three runs in the seventh inning and propel Philadelphia Athletics to a 5 to 3 victory over the staggering Cleveland Indians.

COAST LEAGUE

The curfew bells rang last night and Portland lost a chance to win the Coast League baseball second game of a doubleheader after losing the first to a ninth-inning four-run rally of the Seattle Rainiers at Portland.

In the first game the Beavers were leading 5 to 3 at the start of the ninth, but lost to Seattle's rally with the final score 7 to 5. In the second they were ahead 2 to 0 when league curfew time arrived in the fourth frame and the engagement was ruled no contest.

The single victory gave Seattle a clean record for the two-game stand at Portland.

Al Epperly, the San Francisco righthander, also gets today's key to the crying towel locker.

Big Ep pitched 10 innings of six-hit scoreless ball in the Seals' 1 to 0 win over Los Angeles last night, yet didn't get credit for the victory.

Flynn in Air Force

VANCOUVER (CP)—The disintegration of the great University of British Columbia basketball team, which defeated Toronto Grades three straight in the Canadian hoop final here last spring, began yesterday with the acceptance of Captain Pat Flynn by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Flynn, star of the series against Grads, leaves for the east September 19, coach Maury Van Vliet said yesterday.

The Thunderbird coach said he expected further raids into the ranks of his team by the armed forces in the near future, but mentioned no names.

CANCEL FIGHTS

The mixed wrestling and boxing program scheduled tonight at the Douglas Street Cycledrome has been canceled, promoter Louis Callan announced last night.

Norm Baker Fires Home 10 Goals

Blond tornado in the person of Norm Baker hit the boxia court at the Willows last night with the result the James Bay crew snothered Alerts under a 27 to 9 score in the third game of the current city championship. Result gave the defending champions a two to one game lead in the best-of-seven series.

Baker fired 10 goals past goalie Joe Bryant to equal the season scoring record established earlier in the schedule by Wally Williams of the Alerts. Baker took 13 shots on goal during the night, good evidence of the deadliness of his firing. In addition, he gave one assist. The big fellow was really in his glory and, as the game progressed, Baker had the Alerts' defencemen shaking their heads in bewilderment as he drifted through for goal after goal.

Bays made goal-scoring look simple. The black-sweated squad checked, passed and fired the Alerts into the floor in the first quarter, building up a 9 to 0 lead before Carl Ovcharick whipped home the first Alert goal with a minute of play remaining. It was 14 to 4 at half-time and 21 to 6 at the three-quarter rest.

The Bays had just too much weight and class for the Alerts. The latter's defence was as wide open as a barn door, with the result the heavier forwards of the Bays were continuously right in on top of goalie Bryant. As it was the young goalie turned aside 41 shots, many of them from point-blank range.

Only excitement for the spectators was provided by a pair of fights. Actually they were a couple of wrestling matches and couldn't be called good fistic shows. Norm Coates and Sid Anderson were the first to draw game penalties and were followed to the showers by Andy Ovcharick and Ernie Ball. None of the four suffered any damage.

Fourth game of the playoff is set for tomorrow night with the fifth Monday evening. Starting time each night is 8:30.

In the preliminary last night Clarkson and the Times played to a 7 to 7 deadlock.

V.M.D. Capture Island Honors

Although outfit 10 to 6, Victoria Machinery Depot softballers whipped Wellington 5 to 4 in their island senior B men's final here last night. It marked the second straight win for the locals and won them the series and the right to play in the provincial final.

After gaining a three-run margin the first two innings the V.M.D. were never headed. Rosy McLellan hurled for the V.M.D. to register his second win over the up-island titleholders.

On Monday the V.M.D. will meet the winner of the Britannia Beach-New Westminster series in the British Columbia final here. The clubs will play a doubleheader.

Another provincial play-off will also be staged here Monday afternoon, with Victoria Cardinals playing Vancouver Maple Leafs for the women's senior B honors. These clubs will also play a doubleheader.

The games will be played at the Central and Victoria West parks, with the grounds to be allotted at a late hour today.

Last night the Adverts advanced to the semifinal of the Jack Taylor Memorial Trophy series by eliminating New Method Laundry 12 to 7. Adverts now meet the Cardinals and the survivors of this game will clash with Hunt's Garage in the final. In a Poodle Dog Cup fixture, Douglas Tire defeated Wilson & Cabellu 10 to 1.

Army Recruiting Director Named

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Lt. Col. James Mess of Toronto as director of army recruiting and special assistant to Major-General B. W. Browne, Adjutant-General, was announced tonight by Defence Minister Ralston.

"Associated with him will be a French-Canadian co-ordinator, whose name will be announced in the near future," Col. Ralston's statement said.

The appointments were considered necessary "due to the continual and growing activities in connection with the enlistment of men for the Canadian army."

Col. Mess will act in a civilian capacity. He will co-ordinate the recruiting activities of the various military districts through the district officers commanding and give special attention to co-operation with civilian recruiting committees and organizations throughout Canada.

Col. Ralston said Col. Mess has an intimate knowledge of Canada and Canadian conditions. As president of the Association of Canadian Clubs he had traveled from one end of Canada to the other.

He is an engineer and has been closely associated with public affairs for many years.

Huge Appetite

Take all the men in the navy, army and air force, and you have a whale of an appetite.

Proof? Here is a list of major food purchases by the general purchasing branch of the Munitions and Supply Department during July:

Potatoes 6,000,000 pounds, bread 4,200,000 pounds, beef, 3,400,000 pounds, fresh vegetables 2,500,000 pounds, evaporated milk 1,000,000 pounds, butter 800,000 pounds, bacon 700,000 pounds, cheese 400,000 pounds, coffee 120,000 pounds, tea 100,000 pounds and eggs 500,000 dozen.

To help stow the grub away the barracks stores division ordered an additional 150,000 knives, forks and spoons.

Clothing ordered in July was valued at $8,000,000, cloth $3,000,000, agricultural equipment $1,000,000 and fuels, paints, lubricants and electrical supplies $30,000,000. Mechanical transport orders involved "many millions of dollars," the Defence Department said, and negotiations are under way for materials valued at more than $20,000,000.

To keep the army and its quarters clean the barracks stores division ordered 500,000 bars of soap, 30,000 mop cloths and 200,000 tins of cleansing powder.

Leaving Victoria

Sergt.-Major S. J. Richard of Esquimalt Military Hospital, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, at Work Point Barracks, has been reported to the military hospital at Prince Rupert. He will leave Victoria Monday.

Ending 40 Years Of Army Service

Sergt.-Major A. (Sandy) Sanderson, fencer and gymnastic instructor of the Imperial and Canadian armies, has arrived in Victoria from Regina after nearly completing 40 years' continuous service in the army. His time officially runs out September 30.

Sergt.-Major Sanderson will live here on pension with his daughter, Miss Ann Sanderson, 1126 McClure Street.

Before leaving on furlough, Sergt.-Major Sanderson was garrison sergeant-major at military district headquarters in Regina. Sergeants of the garrison presented him with a gold pocket watch, suitably engraved.

From 1921 until his appointment to this position at the outbreak of war he had been physical instructor at the Regina Normal School, under orders from Military District No. 12. His previous experience started in 1900, when he enlisted in the Horse and Field Artillery at Glasgow, Scotland. During the Great War he served as sergeant-major instructor in England and Canada, conducting courses in Ottawa, Camp Hughes, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. For a time in 1918 he was stationed at Willows Camp, Victoria.

BLUNT SUSPENDED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The District of Columbia Boxing Commission yesterday suspended Eddie Blunt, New York negro heavyweight, until January 1 for an "unsatisfactory performance" in his bout with Bill Poland of New York, which ended in a fourth-round knockout at Griffith Stadium Wednesday night.

Blunt already had received his $1,173 for his brief up-ramp appearance in what had been billed as a 25-rounder.

"There's gonna be no dishwashing when I get married—my girl friend can't cook!"

TRAINS AS PILOT—L.A.C. E. Vernon Miller, son of Mrs. C. W. Holden, 2154 Windsor Road, is now training as a pilot in the Royal Canadian Air Force. He is stationed at Boundary Bay. Born in Victoria, he attended Oak Bay schools and served with the Canadian Bank of Commerce up-island and in the interior.

'Terrific Damage' To Hamburg

LONDON (CP)—An eye-witness account of the Royal Air Force bombing of Hamburg, told by a neutral conscripted by the Germans for war work in that city's shipyards, has been issued by the Ministry of Information. Ill-health enabled the workman to get permission to leave Germany.

The neutral, who formerly lived in Hamburg, was ordered back there from Belgium.

"There I worked—and was bombed—for Hitler until a few weeks ago," he said. "I took the oath that every German workman has to take to serve Adolf Hitler."

"The army of Hitler's war workers includes a large percentage of foreigners. We were given the most dangerous tasks, such as fire-fighting in the shipyards and factories. So I can give first-hand facts of the R.A.F. raids."

"I have heard those new, powerful British bombs explode in the shipyards of Hamburg. Few people are allowed to see the worst of the havoc, but the nature of my work qualified me for a special pass which took me into all four of the big yards."

DAMAGE TERRIFIC

"Bombed areas are ringed for a radius of 500 yards; the official communiques grossly understate the damage and casualties; but I can say that the damage has been terrific."

"Terror is one of the methods used by the Gestapo in Hamburg shipyards. One of my colleagues was sent to prison for two years. His offence was to observe aloud that Britain had a bigger navy when a fellow-worker was praising the Tirpitz, sister-ship of the Bismarck, which now is being fitted out. He was overheard by an S.S. guard, arrested and sent to prison for treason."

"There are usually about 50,000 seamen waiting for ships in Hamburg. There is always a rush when crews are wanted for the Baltic coasting trade but when hands are wanted for ships going into the North Sea to the ports of occupied countries the seamen find various means of keeping out of the way."

"In the final stages of my stay in Germany I saw unmistakable signs of the weakness of the Nazi war effort."

"The fall of Nazism will come without shadow of doubt, and I believe that when Germany cracks she will crack suddenly. But nothing but unremitting effort will be sufficient to meet Hitler's maximum onslaught in the next few months."

Concerned Over C.P.R. Change

The problem of ferrying tourist cars to the island when the C.P.R. steamers, Princess Kathleen and Princess Marguerite are replaced by smaller ships on the runs between Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria next Tuesday, will be brought before Captain R. W. McMurray, manager of the B.C. Coast Service of the C.P.R., by a delegation from the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Directors of the bureau decided to send the delegation to the steamship company after George I. Warren, publicity commissioner, told them at their monthly meeting yesterday that the replacing ships, Princess Charlotte and Princess Alice, were capable of carrying only 12 and six cars respectively.

"The Princess Kathleen had an average load of 21 cars daily from Seattle in the last week," Mr. Warren said. "The new boats will be leaving cars on the docks in Seattle and Vancouver."

The directors worried mainly over the month of September. After September the tourist business subsided considerably and they felt the Charlotte and Alice would be capable of handling the number of tourist cars then.

Comments of some of the directors leading up to the decision that a delegation be sent to wait on Captain McMurray, were:

"We should be thankful that the C.P.R. didn't make the change in ships a month ago."

"Victoria being the capital of British Columbia is entitled to a better service than that which will be offered starting next week."

"You can't blame the company for the change in ships."

"We owe it to our visitors to do something to try and remedy the situation."

Representations will be made to the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to have R.A.F. radio broadcasts from Victoria to England, similar to the programs sent from England to Canada in which Canadian soldiers take part.

Action of the commissioner in complaining to the C.B.C. of its failure to carry over CBR, Major Clement Atlee's broadcast from London at the time it had been scheduled two weeks ago, was approved.

Commissioner Warren also said he had complained that Victoria was omitted time after time on broadcasts in which the city should receive mention. The regional director of the corporation, Ira Dilworth, had informed him the complaint would be forwarded to the eastern offices of the corporation.

Ald. W. H. Davies, a member of the board, thought the bureau should have the boats from Seattle next summer met by a girls' pipe band, or that some similar form of welcome should be extended the visitors.

E. W. McMullen, chairman, said it was the bureau's job to encourage tourist travel here and although it would be a good idea to provide some form of entertainment or welcome when they did arrive, finances did not permit any such action.

"I think we do a good job already with the ridiculously small amount of money the City Council grants the bureau," said Duncan MacBride. "We have extended our work to the prairie provinces this year, too, as well as continuing our work in the United States."

Property Sales Near $2,000,000

Nearly $2,000,000 worth of property was sold in Victoria during the first half of this year and over $500,000 changed hands through other transfers, according to a statement issued by the city assessor-collector's department today.

The sales' total was higher than any previously listed during the 12 years for which records have been kept at the City Hall.

Sales up to the end of June were $1,943,224, covering 831 deals. Last year at the same date 585 properties had been sold for $926,018. June figures showed 154 sales realizing $327,141.

Transfers for the first half of the year accounted for changes in ownership of another $398,710, against $773,780 for the first half of 1940. Wills up to June 30 disclosed $220,840 worth of real estate in new hands, against $287,734 for the first half of last year. Those combined with the sales, showed $2,562,774 worth of property listed under new ownership. The figure for the corresponding 1940 period was $1,987,532.

During June $100,127 worth changed hands through transfers and $49,350 through wills.

All the joy, comfort and beauty of an old-fashioned fire, but all the old-time objections gone forever. We don't have to sell them—we just introduce you to a new one.

Alice A. Frost of the Seattle Public Library, chairman of the pre-conference institute on adult education held Wednesday, reported today on the meeting. Kathleen Campbell of Montana State University Library, Missoula, and Charles W. Smith, University of Washington Library, Seattle, discussed regional bibliographic planning in the Pacific northwest.

Miss Campbell suggested a bibliographic centre, established at the University of Washington, should be developed as a regional library and centre for research, purchasing and cataloging of the Pacific northwest.

PIONEER OF CITY CALLED TO REST

Mrs. Jane Bertha Robinson, 1122 Cameron Street, a native daughter of Victoria and a resident of this district all her life, died Wednesday at Royal Jubilee Hospital, aged 72 years. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 from the Thomson Funeral Home. Rev. James Hood will officiate and burial will be in the family plot in Old Colwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Robinson was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Semple, Scottish pioneers, Mrs. Semple having traveled from Scotland via Cape Horn at the age of nine to what was then Fort Victoria. The family settled in Victoria West, where Mrs. Robinson was born, and she received her education at the pioneer private school conducted by Mrs. Jenns, Craigflower School being at that time the only public school and too far away for her to attend. A woman of cultured tastes, Mrs. Robinson was fond of sketching, and her family treasures many of her watercolors of local scenes.

She leaves her widower, Herbert C. Robinson, at the family residence; two daughters, Mrs. E. Weber and Mrs. T. Crowther, Victoria; one son, in the U.S.A.; one brother, Alex Semple, and three grandchildren, all in Victoria.

Huot and Horne Win Last Match

LAVAL, Que. (CP)—The eastern team of Stan Horne and Jules Huot salvaged the last of a five-match series with westerners, Stan Leonard and Fred Wood yesterday when they rallied to gain a 1-up victory in the east-west professional tour.

Leonard, from Calgary, and Wood, from Vancouver, had won the first four matches played on western courses. The five-match series was played for the benefit of the Red Cross.

In yesterday's 18-hole play, the teams were tied up to the fourth hole where Wood shot a birdie. It was not until the 10th that the eastern team tied it up when Huot came through with a birdie 4 while the others took par 5's.

After splitting the 11th the west went ahead again when Wood smashed out a screaming drive and followed it up for a sparkling eagle 3 as compared with par 5's for the other three players. Horne and Huot tied it up again on the 15th, each getting birdie's 3's to two bogie 5's for the westerners.

The eastern team went ahead to stay on the 16th—the first time they had led a margin on Leonard and Wood in the entire series. Both western players bogied the hole while Horne got a par 4 and Huot a birdie. The final two holes were halved.

No Coast Pro Hockey

SEATTLE (AP)—A swan song was sung yesterday for professional ice hockey in the Pacific Northwest.

Foyle Peabody, owner of the Seattle franchise in the Pacific Coast League last season, said a fast senior amateur league probably would substitute for the professional circuit if enough players are available from National Hockey League clubs for development.

If such a league is established, he said, it probably would include teams from Portland, Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria.

He said all Coast League players were up for sale, and those who are not sold undoubtedly would be released and given a chance to regain their amateur status.

THE BIG STORE AT DOMINION

"The Big Store," opening at the Dominion Theatre today, presents a greater musical array than any Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture in several years, excepting the Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy films.

The department store comedy stars the Marxes as private detectives. The madcap Marxes learned the lesson that "music heals all wounds and breaks box office records" when they made "Room Service" in 1938. It didn't have any music, the only Marx picture of its kind. It didn't even have Harpo's selection on the harp or Chico's piano solo—and they still get complaints about it through the mail.

In sharp contrast, "A Night at the Opera," the picture which stressed music more than any other Marx venture to date, met with the greatest success.

Comedy Team in Midnight Show

Ted Lewis, who is featured with Abbott and Costello in Universal's new laugh sensation, "Hold That Ghost," which will be the feature at the special show at the Capitol Theatre Sunday midnight, is the dean of America's contemporary "name" band leaders. Lewis made his professional debut in Cincinnati, Ohio, at the age of 17 and has been the head of his own organization for 30 years. Six of his musicians have been with him for nearly two decades.

Jack Buchanan In Plaza Comedy

"The Middle Watch," a most successful service comedy starring Jack Buchanan as a captain in the Royal Navy will open at the Plaza Theatre on Monday.

Some of the most comical situations are presented by Reginald Purdell and Leslie Fuller as corporal and marine sentries.

RIO THEATRE

Tim Holt, son of the ever-popular Jack Holt, who made his first appearance as a western star, has been such a success in pictures that he has been offered a contract to make six more thrilling western dramas in which he will again be starred. Needless to say he has accepted the offer, and his latest picture, "Robbers of the Range," today is at the Rio Theatre.

ATLAS THEATRE

The air is still Ray Milland's element, whether he's acting a role in a movie or flying his own plane for pleasure and excitement.

"I Wanted Wings," the title of the Paramount air saga in which he stars with William Holden, Wayne Morris and Brian Donlevy, means much more to Milland than a mere title, for it applies to his private life as well as his screen career.

Four of his most important film roles prior to "I Wanted Wings," which is now at the Atlas Theatre, have presented him as a flier.

He's Here Again In His New LAFF RIOT!

When a great cast, great story and great director are assembled for a motion picture, it's inevitable that moviegoers are in for a treat.

That treat ought to be forthcoming in Paramount's Technicolor film version of the famous novel by Harold Bell Wright, "The Shepherd of the Hills," which is now at the Capitol Theatre, starring John Wayne, Betty Field and Harry Carey. Henry Hathaway, the masterful director who gave us "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," handled the megaphone on this romantic drama of the Ozarks.

Gulf Stream Helps To Keep Iceland From Freezing

Thanks to the Gulf Stream, Iceland does not have such a cold climate as we might expect for a country at the edge of the Arctic Circle. A branch of the Gulf Stream flows to the western side of the island, and causes warm breezes to blow over it. Those breezes have an effect even in midwinter. There are days in January when the temperature of the capital city is above the freezing point.

Young Iceland woman with one of the shaggy ponies common on the island.

The capital city is named Reykjavik, and it contains about one-third of all the people in Iceland. Its January temperature is about the same as that of Philadelphia. Odd things happen during Iceland's summer. Now and then Reykjavik has a snowfall on a July or August day! In general we may say that this city's winters are not so cold as those of New York City, and the summers are not so hot.

Iceland has forests of low trees, most of them not rising above the height of 12 or 15 feet. The trees are mainly dwarf birches and mountain oaks.

Because fuel is hard to obtain, the people of Iceland have had to find ways to keep warm without burning much wood or coal. They have done, in modern times, by the use of water power and hot springs.

Mountain streams have been dammed, and falling water from the dams is turned into electric power. The electric power serves to heat many of the homes, and also lights them. During the long, dark months of winter, it is ever so important for these folk to enjoy electric lights.

About 40 years ago a farmer in western Iceland laid a pipe from a hot spring into his home. This led other farmers to follow his example, and today there are many farm homes which are heated with water from hot springs. The warm water also is piped into hothouses, and is employed to water outdoor vegetable gardens. Warm water helps the vegetables to grow more rapidly.

In 1929 hot spring water was piped into a hospital at Reykjavik, likewise into a school and into 30 homes. Since then scores of other houses in the city have come to be heated by hot water obtained in this way.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX--I am a young woman married to an old man.

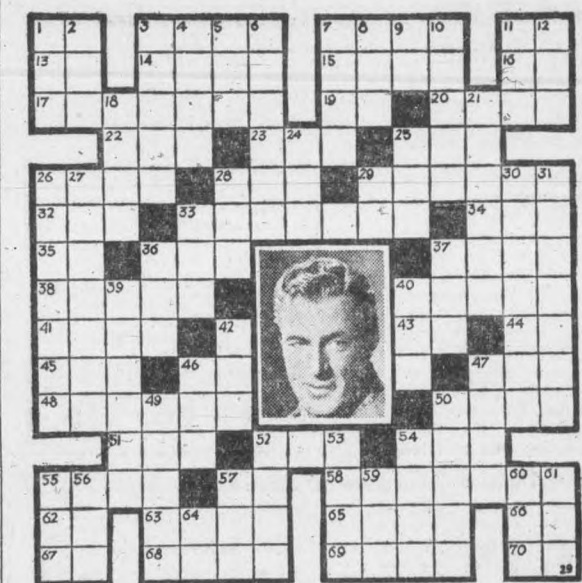

I have been a helpless invalid for some time and the doctors say there is no chance for me to get any better, but that I may linger on for some time. My husband says he loves me and will provide for me as long as I live. He is very kind to me, but although he is old he likes to go out in gay company and he thinks that I should not object to this. Do you think I should leave him because of this? I have no means of support and my medicine and doctors' bills are very high. I suppose if I divorced him I would get some of his property, which I had no part in making. He had everything he has now before we were married. He gives me all the money I need, but since I have been threatening him with divorce he has very little to say to me. What should I do?

ONE IN TROUBLE.

Answer: Your question is whether you shall let your jealousy of your husband's "lady friends" cut you off from his support. No one ever needs money so badly as an invalid does. In any case sickness and suffering are hard to bear, but they are alleviated by the comforts that doctors and nurses and medicines and luxuries can give. And most of all, by the sense of security money affords.

Don't throw these away on the chance of getting a little alimony. Nothing is so hard to collect as that. DOROTHY DIX.

Mme. X in Victoria

Dear Bruce Hutchison:—I am writing this letter hurriedly and sending it off special delivery because I know how you will rush to parry the thrusts which that man Ferguson of the Winnipeg Free Press has made against Victoria. I want to warn you because this brilliant woman educator he calls Mme. X has, I'm sure, told him worse things about it than about the weather, and it is my firm belief, and Dan's too, that he is just waiting your innocent reply to leap into print and confront you with them. We saw a great deal of this Mme. X and are sure this is so.

First, she tried to contemplate the view in thoughtful mood from a bench in Beacon Hill and was annoyed by a friendly female lunatic who embarrassed her so much by her affection that she, Madame X, fled back to her pension and sat trembling by the telephone wondering if she should call the police. Do you suppose he knows about this?

Then there was the pension itself. At meal times, right on the dot, a forest of invalid canes went stomping down the aisles and fanned out to different tables. There was also an ear trumpet. Mme. X had us to dinner there and we did not realize until we were well into the plot of a book which an artist friend of ours is writing, that all soup spoons were suspended and that the ear trumpet was cocked in our direction. The book has a frisky plot and as Dan recounted it in his subdued tones, subdued but always able to reach the very back row in any theatre, I tried to catch his eye and stop him because the ear trumpet was quivering. But he carried right on past the sinning and then the elderly lady called loudly for the waitress and had her ear trumpet sent out to be disinfected.

We called up all the creative minds we could think of and invited them to our house to meet this Winnipeg educator. Well, Mr. Hutchison, you won't believe this, but a blight seemed to have descended upon everyone that week. A librarian had suddenly collapsed at the stacks, a delightful illustrator begged off because one of her children had banged its skull and there were three colds reported and a headache. Well, we got her out here with a Doctor of Philosophy in tow, and right here I want to say that while this young man was educated in Victoria, he has lived in Winnipeg too long. The brilliant young painter was to come, too, the one who was writing the book, but he just didn't arrive. He didn't turn up until midnight, just as Mme. X and the philosophy man had on their coats, then he demanded that we drive in and get him and bring him out, which Dan did, only to find that he had had a crisis in his life. On arrival he would not perform for the Winnipeg educator, who had been told to expect some brilliant conversation, but instead, stood about in corners looking gloomy and dwelling upon his crimes. Also, the philosophy man had begun at one side of the table and eaten his way right around it with scholarly concentration, at which point he developed a megrim headache and retired to the front porch while he poked frantically in the medicine cabinet. Mme. X, who had up to this time tried to help out with some good Winnipeg conversation herself, gave up and said flatly that he had eaten too much.

But even yet, Mr. Hutchison, I have not told you the complete horror of that evening. The plumbing wouldn't work. There was no water. It is a very difficult thing to entertain when there is no water in the pipes. I blame you for this. If you had not written so beguilingly about her onion patch, we would not have got the idea of coming out here. Now we get our taxes sent to us from the Municipal Hall in an envelope bearing the slogan, "Saanich, the Garden of Vancouver Island," and there is no water in the pipes to sprinkle any garden. This evening there was none at all. Just air which went "bang! bang!" and then whistled. Even our most conservative paper ran a piece that day calling us the "Great Unwashed Gordon Head." If it hadn't been for you, we would have been in town yet, where there is always water in the pipes. As it was, here was this Mme. X on our hands and the plumbing wouldn't work. I couldn't make coffee either or mix anything that called for water, not, of course, that we could offer an educator anything. This is not good for their profession.

It was a good thing she left next day because that evening the artist and the doctor of Philosophy turned up again all cheer and now ready to perform for her and the artist had a blister on his heel which had broken and he wanted a basin of water to soak it in and some bandages. Now, it is a very startling thing, Mr. Hutchison, to have one of the most brilliant young Canadian artists soaking his foot in the middle of a Persian rug. Thank goodness she cannot retail this morsel to the man Ferguson. Also, just as they were leaving, he remembered that he had four wet collars rolled up in his pocket which he wanted to iron, having washed them out at the bathroom sink of his boarding house—which he was not supposed to do—and sneaked them out. So the man of philosophy sat down again and waited until the artist ironed them out on the dining-room table.

If you want to answer his charges safely, I suggest, Mr. Hutchison, that you take up the point about the fires which broke out while men staggered wearily out in shifts and the women wept. That fire was down at the end of our road and it was Dan who told her about it, because he had helped dig trenches to head it off. He did not "stagger" but, having an eye to turning a penny, dug away cheerfully one Wednesday afternoon. I did not weep awaiting his return, either.

The spot where the fire began is a favorite place for neckers, and a neighbor assured me there have been 22 fires there due to the combustible nature of love on the coast. What I mean is, it is at the point where they need two hands and so throw their cigarettes out that the fires start. Mr. Ferguson possibly would not understand this.

Sincerely,
REBY MACDONALD.

War Housing Plan Studied

Operations of Wartime Housing Ltd., the organization which provides temporary homes for workers in wartime industries when accommodation is not otherwise available, were explained to the city lands committee yesterday by H. B. Robinson, district representative in North Vancouver.

The committee studied the question with a view to having information on hand should a scarcity arise when the local ship-building program is in full swing. To determine the amount of accommodation still available, the lands committee will conduct a survey in Victoria, listing vacant houses, duplexes and boarding facilities in the city to decide what margin exists to handle any influx of workers. Landlords or tenants with available accommodation will be asked to communicate with the land commissioner's office at the City Hall.

The housing proposal has been advanced in Esquimalt, Prince Rupert and North Vancouver, where housing conditions have caused some concern. Under the plan such structures, renting for approximately $25 a month, would be erected in defined zones, and would be removed at the close of the war. Use of the structures would be restricted to men engaged in war industries only.

Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, chairman, presided over yesterday's meeting.

Refuse to Walk

Headed by John W. Schmidt, president of the Milwaukee branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers, 60 postmen from Milwaukee, Wis., crossed the straits from Seattle yesterday to Victoria.

On reaching Seattle by train the postmen declined to walk to the C.P.R. dock—just a warm-up jaunt for mailmen—sitting tight until a chartered bus arrived to take them to the boat.

"We're on a vacation and do not intend to do any more walking than necessary," they said. On arrival in Victoria they piled on a bus to see the sights.

Initiative Stressed In Officer Training

Officers' training centres are tangible evidence of Canada's determination to pay unflinching attention to the selection, training and supply of junior officers throughout the present war.

Men who would be leaders must be able to do everything they will require of their subordinates, and the training centres see that they are able to do it—and well.

Formation of the O.T.C.'s eliminated an unsatisfactory method of commissioning new officers through the district depots spotted across Canada from Cape Breton to Vancouver Island. It also permits careful selection of instructional staffs, the institution of a controlled course, of examinations leading to a uniform high standard of efficiency in the graduate and centralized supervision of the flow of officer reinforcements.

Before becoming eligible for recommendation for a commission in the active army, the prospective officer must first serve four months in an active formation or one annual training with a reserve unit. The only exceptions are for candidates with science, medical or dental degrees, chartered accountants or those with special training or knowledge.

The O.T.C.'s will eventually train between 4,000 and 6,000 new officers per year who are recommended for promotion to commissioned rank by their officers commanding.

They may be either non-commissioned officers and men who have shown merit in an active service unit, or they can be chosen from the ranks of the training centres. The third group in attendance at the O.T.C.'s are reserve army junior officers, members of C.O.T.C.'s or N.C.O.'s of reserve units obtaining active service qualification.

12 WEEKS' COURSE

The candidates for commissions in the active service take a course of 12 weeks. If successful, the candidates become second lieutenants and proceed to one of 21 advanced training centres to qualify for lieutenant. The advanced course varies with the arm—from four weeks for infantry (rifle) and eight weeks for artillery to 12 weeks for the signal corps.

Establishment of O.T.C.'s at Brockville and Victoria resulted from the adoption of the rigid regulation that a candidate for a commission must first serve in the ranks. This is continuing a 1914-1918 innovation which proved itself in the stress of action.

When the system of promotion from the ranks was first adopted as an emergency measure in the first Great War it was a radical departure from army custom. But it proved so sound that it was continued when the acute shortage of subalterns was relieved.

Immediately after the second Battle of Ypres it was apparent that the attrition was to be most serious in the ranks of the junior commanders. Inadequate reserves for reinforcements in England were quickly exhausted, with the result that many commissions were granted in the field with the unit commanders' recommendation accepted as sufficient qualification.

The plan worked, even without special training, for two reasons. One was that the Canadians had a high percentage of men in the ranks with the necessary educational background. Later in the war scores of Canadian non-commissioned officers and men were commissioned to the British army, whose provision for new officers was also inadequate. The second reason for the scheme's success was that the prolonged deadlock made first-hand knowledge of trench warfare one of the most valuable assets a new officer could possess.

War conditions are different in this war, but the system of having an officer know thoroughly the job the men of the ranks have to do has not changed. Instead, it is even more imperative today that a junior officer know all details of the work of his subordinates than ever before.

INTENSIVE TRAINING

In the new lightning warfare in which the Canadian army is being trained, the conditions of the last war when lines of communication remained fairly intact no longer obtain. Men waging war today have no time to wait for long detailed orders from superiors—they must act quickly. Their training, for this reason, is more intensive.

As Col. J. K. Lawson, director of military training, said in a recent address: "There is now no idea of continuous lines, either in attack or defence, such that each unit could, so to speak, shake hands at all times with its neighbors. They must be prepared to fight their own battle. From the division downward, orders are generally given out verbally, and are as brief as possible. This leaves a great deal to the initiative of the junior leader, and he must be trained to use that initiative along sound lines."

The young men who will lead their platoons into action in this war are receiving their intensive training at Officers' Training Centres. They do all the work and training that they will expect their men to do when they are in action.

On entering an O.T.C. the future officers and those who already hold commissions relinquish their authority and "join the ranks." Through a system of mutual instruction and by lectures and practical work under skilled specialists in training they learn their basic work thoroughly.

BASIC KNOWLEDGE

It is impressed upon the candidates in training that on their graduation from an O.T.C. they will not know everything about war. But they gain the basic knowledge that will set them on the right track for further training and individual study that is so necessary to win promotion in Canada's modern army.

The training period is broken up roughly into two sections—the common to all arms and special to arms. In the first section all candidates in training take the drill, lectures and practical work. It is during this course that they learn how the army operates, and the make-up of all arms of the service and how they must cooperate to win the final victory.

The second phase is intensive study on their own particular arm of service, be it infantry, artillery, signals, or in whatever arm the candidate will eventually take his command.

The candidates in training need no reminder of the value of coming up from the ranks. They have two shining examples overseas at the present time—Major-General R. G. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., who now commands the 1st Canadian Division and who left Canada in 1915 as a lance-corporal with the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, and Major-

'Pseudo-gentleman'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Maloney (Democrat, Connecticut) said today numerous vital defence industries along the eastern seaboard of the United States "are terrified because they have only four or five days' supply of bunker oil."

The chairman of the special Senate committee investigating shortages of gasoline and petroleum products offered this comment as he questioned the wisdom of diverting so many American tankers to other than normal transportation of petroleum products to the eastern seaboard.

Rear-Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, said shortages were "caused by a pseudo-gentleman by the name of Hitler and further caused by the laws of Congress."

The senators also learned that the Pacific coast soon may face the same curtailment of gasoline sales now effective along the eastern seaboard.

BERLIN (AP)—The Nazi high command announced today the loss in action of Capt. Hermann Joppien, fighter pilot, credited with 70 aerial victories.

General C. B. Price, D.S.O., D.C.M., V.D., who now commands the 3rd Canadian Division and who went overseas in 1914 as a company sergeant-major with the 14th Battalion.

... Out of Gas!

Don't let this happen

It hasn't happened. It could happen. Unless we continue to decrease our private consumption of gasoline by 50%, it may happen.

With tankers diverted for overseas service, Canada is faced with an acute shortage of gasoline and fuel oil so vital to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, our mechanized army and our navy.

The Government believes that every Canadian would gladly forego driving altogether rather than see these fighting units suffer. But the Government doesn't ask you to give up driving; it asks you only to be sparing of your gasoline. It asks you to drive less—to drive carefully—to drive slowly.

Now is the time to act. Do your part by reducing your gasoline consumption by 50%. Pledge yourself to go 50-50 with our fighting forces . . . and follow the 17 easy ways toward this saving listed here.

It is also vitally important that you reduce the use of domestic and commercial fuel oil.
